The Hamilton College Summer School of English

"... reminded me not a little of the Conference of English Teachers at Stratford-on-Avon."

"The cluster of college buildings on the high, cool hilltop was almost as beautiful in its way as the red-tiled river village of Warwickshire."

"The spirit of the two gatherings was singularly alike—a company of clever, earnest men and women—not too large—considering together various aspects of English study, without pedantry and without affectation."

"I was impressed by the combination of intellectual seriousness with a direct simplicity of manner."

"One may question whether many of the colleges will be able to reproduce the peculiar advantages of Hamilton, with its long tradition of interest in oral English."

These are excerpts from an article on the Hamilton Summer School of English by Professor JOHN M. CLAPP, printed in the English Journal for December 1916.

The Elementary Course in English

By JAMES FLEMING HOSIC

Head of the Department of English
Chicago Teachers College

"The Elementary Course in English" is a practical guide for teachers, supervisors, and parents. It presents in outline a working theory of elementary English, with selected references to the recent literature of the subject. In this way the book is well fitted for individual study and for group discussions in normal schools, teachers' reading circles, teachers' institutes, and parents' associations. The book contains also a suggestive course of study in composition, grammar, word study, reading, and literature. Definite standards of attainment in these subjects are indicated for each year in terms of efficient activity. Graded lists of material are provided. These include stories for reading and for telling, poems for study and memorizing, supplementary reading books classified by subjects, and selected literary studies for higher grades. There is an appendix, which contains a list of books to be read to the children, a list of verse collections, and a list of prose collections. All the pieces mentioned in the body of the work may be readily found in these collections by means of an ingenious system of indexing.

FRED L. HOMER, Pittsburgh High Schools, Pittsburgh, Pa.:

I believe it to be the best single volume collection for school use I am acquainted with.

JOHN L. HANEY, Central High School, Philadelphia, Pa.:

It is a pleasure to note how successfully the editor has coped with the really perplexing problem that confronted him in the compilation of this volume. He has shown rare judgment in his apportionment of the space to the significant writers of each epoch.

W. H. DAVIS, Bowdoin College:

I have adopted the textbook for my course this year: I like its common sense and four-square-ness. I find the chapter on Debating free from superfluous material, more pointed, saner, and more sensible than any corresponding chapter which I have read. The unacademic approach to this subject, as illustrated by that chapter, seems to me indispensable to success and soundness in teaching the subject. The refreshing and stimulating feature of the book, I find, is that it furnishes a fillip and a supplement to common sense, not a substitute for it.

Stands the Test of Service

The Buff Buckram Binding of WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL

Dictionary. It is now recommended in preference to the sheep binding for use in Schools, Public Libraries, Offices, Homes, or wherever subjected to hard and constant service.

Tests prove that this Buckram excels other binding materials in strength, resistance to rubbing wear, to stretching, to moisture, to the fading effect of sunlight, etc. Since 1907 the United States Government has used it for permanent publications. Many librarians insist upon the Buckram binding. For more than two years this binding of the New International has successfully met the severe tests of actual constant use. The NEW INTERNATIONAL is The One Supreme Authority. It is an all-knowing teacher, a universal question answerer, made by specialists to meet your needs.

400,000 Vocabulary Terms. 12,000 Biographical Entries. New Gazetteer, nearly 30,000 Subjects. Thousands of other references. 6000 Illustrations. 2700 Pages. Hundreds of NEW Words not given in any other dictionary. 100 Valuable Tables of Coins, Weights, Religious Sects, etc.

REGULAR EDITION:

GERTRUDE ATHERTON writes to the author concerning

BAKER'S THE CONTEMPORARY SHORT STORY

"I sat up reading your book until I finished it, for it certainly is interesting reading, quite apart from its more valuable qualities. These struck me as being very definite, and it is the first time I have read a book of that sort from which I got a clear idea of how really to write a short story. Most of them have seemed to me very vague and futile."

WORKING COMPOSITION

By JOHN B. OPDYCKE

*Head of the Department of English in the Julia Richman High School
New York City*

A fresh and inspiring text upon oral and written English as an aid in effective industry. The lessons are unconventional, superlatively practical, and based upon successful experience. The book appeals to progressive teachers of English.

Lewis and Hosic's Practical English for High Schools

By WILLIAM D. LEWIS, Principal William Penn High School for Girls, Philadelphia, and JAMES FLEMING HOSIC, Managing Editor, The English Journal, Secretary of National Council of Teachers of English, Head of Department of English, Chicago
Normal College, Chicago, Cloth, 12mo, 350 pp. approximately. Price $1.00.

THIS book attempts to teach the old subject of English composition in a way that is more informal and interesting than is customary. There is a liveliness of tone to the presentation which is well calculated to appeal to the pupil and spur him on to do the work presented. Each topic begins with illustrative selections, many of them from student themes, and from these suggestive questions bring out the most important principles, which in their turn are made the basis of exercises to be performed by the pupil. There is an absence of formal and formidable rules.

Throughout the work it is the practical side that receives the chief emphasis. The pupil is given a working knowledge of modern business methods. Besides being drilled thoroughly in those fundamental principles that are common to all kinds of good English, his attention is devoted to the use of cards for filing and outlining, the study of business reports, business letters, proofreading, and newspaper writing. An attempt is also made to teach the pupil how to criticize and correct his own work, and how to make correct recitations. A brief review of the essentials of grammar is included.
